

Bibliography

Simon Faulkner, BSocSc. (Psychology & Addiction), MCouns.

Faulkner, S. (2025). A therapist's reflective analysis on cultural perspectives of time, harmony & the rise in anxiety. Australian Counselling Research Journal, 18 (2) 60-64
<https://www.acrjournal.com.au/journal?id=28>

Faulkner, S. (2023). Drumming, rhythm, and regulation through a polyvagal lens. JoCAT, 18(1). <https://www.jocat-online.org/pp-23-faulkner>

Faulkner, S. (2022). Rhythms of learning – a model of practice supporting youth mental health in the era of COVID-19. Journal of Psychologists and Counsellors in Schools, 1-7. doi:10.1017/jgc.2021.33

Faulkner, S. (Ed.) (2021). Leading drum circles with specific population groups: An introduction to drum circles for therapeutic and educational outcomes. London: JKP

Faulkner, S. (2020). Integrating somatic approaches into practice through rhythmic music. Counselling Australia, Summer, 21 (4).

Faulkner, S., & Bartleet, B. L. (2019). Drumming interventions in Australian prisons: Insights from the Rhythm2 Recovery Model. In M. Balfour, B. L. Bartleet, L. Davey, J. Rynne & H. Schippers (Eds.). Performing arts in prisons. Bristol: Intellect.

Faulkner S. (2018) Therapeutic applications for Integrating rhythm and reflection in support of people with co-occurring drug and alcohol, and mental health issues. Journal of Dual Diagnosis Vol.3 No.2: 5.

Faulkner, S. (2017). The traditional healing properties of the drum merge with the latest research from the fields of neuroscience and trauma informed care. UK Journal of Complimentary Therapy, Winter edition.

Faulkner, S. (2017). Practice notes: Rhythm2Recovery: A Model of practice combining rhythmic music with cognitive reflection for social and emotional health within trauma recovery. Australian and New Zealand Journal of Family Therapy, 38, 627-636.

Faulkner, S. (2017). Rhythm to Recovery – A practical guide to using rhythmic music, voice and movement for social and emotional development. London: Jessica Kingsley Publishers.

Wood, L., & Faulkner, S. (2014). Reach me & you can teach me - Engagement and social learning through hand drumming Journal of Relational Child & Youth Care Practice, 27,1,18-26

Faulkner, S., Wood, L., Ivery, P., & Donavon, R. (2012). It is not just music & rhythm - Evaluation of a drumming-based program to improve the social wellbeing of alienated youth. Children Australia, 37,1, 31-39.

Faulkner, S., Ivery, P., Wood, L., & Donovan, R. (2010). Music as a tool for social learning and improved educational outcomes. Australian Journal of Indigenous Education, 39, 98-108.

Faulkner, S. (2006). Discovering relationships through music. Journal of Australian Music Education, 4, 1.

For further information visit <http://www.rhythm2recovery.com/>